DETAILED ACTION

Reponse to applicants remarks and amendments

1. Applicant's remarks and amendments of 26 May 2009 have been considered but deemed moot in light of the new non-final rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 U.S.C. § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. § 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

D3:US20030158478

D4:US20020057171

D5:SU1001396

D6:JP8149899

D7:GB717075 (note that above references were already supplied in IDS)

3. Claims 1, 16, 26, and 40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. §102(b) as being fully anticipated by US20030158478 (D3) and by US20020057171 (D4).

The document D3 shows a transformer (Figure 7; sections 0042, 0043) which sums voltages applied to its primary and secondary windings ( $V_{out} = V_1 + V_2 + V_3$ ). This known transformer thus comprises all the features of claims 1, 16, 26, and 40.

The document D4 shows a transformer (Figure 9) which has the same arrangement of transformer windings as defined in claims 1, 16, 26 and 40. Four primary winding turns [layers 1, 3, 5 and 7] are arranged between four secondary winding turns [layers 2, 4, 6 and 8] by which close inductive coupling between the primary winding and the secondary winding is achieved. Thus, D4 shows all the features of claims 1, 16, 26 and 40.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 2-14, 17-25, 28-34, and 36-39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over D3 or D4 as described above in view of D5 or D6 or D7.

The features contained in dependent 2-14, 17-25, 28-34, and 36-39 seem to correspond to embodiments of circuit design in the field of inductive coupling of different voltage waveforms which is known in the art as is shown by documents D5, D6, and D7.

1. A voltage summer including a transformer having a primary side and a secondary side, wherein a first voltage to be summed is connected to the primary side and a second voltage to be summed is connected to the secondary side.
2. A voltage summer according to claim 1, wherein the first voltage is connected between the first tap of the primary side and the second tap of the primary side, and the second voltage is connected to a first tap of the secondary side, a summed voltage being provided on a second tap of the primary or secondary side.
3. A voltage summer according to claim 2, wherein the first voltage is greater than the second voltage and the summed voltage is provided on the second tap of the primary side of the transformer.
4. A voltage summer according to claim 1 wherein the first voltage is a variable voltage.
16. A method of summing voltages including applying a first voltage to a primary side of a transformer and applying a second voltage to a secondary side of the transformer, wherein a sum of the first and second voltages is provided on one of the first or second sides of the transformer.
17. A method according to claim 16, wherein the first voltage is applied between the first tap of the primary side and the second tap of the primary side, and the second voltage is applied to a first tap of the secondary side, wherein a summed voltage is provided on a second tap of the primary or secondary side.

18. A method according to claim 17, wherein the first voltage is greater than the second voltage and the summed voltage is provided on the second tap of the primary side of the transformer.
19. A method according to claim 16 further comprising the step of varying the first voltage.
20. A method according to claim 16 further comprising the step of varying the second voltage.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. No claims are allowable.
